

What is a GED?

You may hear other meanings for GED such as Graduate Equivalency Degree or General Educational Diploma. However, GED traditionally stands for General Educational Development Test.

After graduating from high school, you will receive a diploma. A diploma is a document stating you've completed all the required courses to graduate. Some students in high school are close to finishing and getting a diploma, but don't quite get there. In those cases, students can take a series of tests that will indicate whether or not they have a high school level of education. This is known as the GED test.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD GET YOUR GED

THE JOB MARKET HAS CHANGED

In today's world, most employers require a high school diploma or a GED. Getting one opens the doors to more opportunities.

A GED CAN MAKE A BIG DIFFERENCE IN FUTURE EARNINGS

For example, a study by the National Center for Education Statistics revealed a difference of more than $6,800 per year in average earnings between non-graduates and persons who held either a high school diploma or GED.

THE MORE YOU LEARN, THE MORE YOU CAN LEARN.

The skills you gain in studying for your GED make it possible for you to be successful in other areas of your life. Your self-confidence grows. You become aware that you have the ability to set a goal and then figure it out.

NEW OPPORTUNITIES

Getting your GED helps you meet requirements to go to college or join a branch of the armed forces.

SET AN EXAMPLE

Your determination to make your life better influences others who are struggling. The ripple effect of your efforts can have far-reaching results!
